-untruth/non/de/not-
has become "necessary" by means of cultural values established upon partial/incomplete/traumatized/purpose-biased conception of what must be contrary to "isness" / available / current individual awareness of daunting abundance demanding no make nor suicidal use of.

No idols can be a more subtle form than obvious renditions - cash, ~~plastic figures~~^{technology efficiencies}, you name the object of worship - as can become over-focus; & whereas energy ought be "free", if we exonerate potential reality over actuality without effort of manifesting, how can we escape some redundant form of substituting the representation for the source?
A plastic bottle with picture of a charming waterfall is no worthy replacement of the glistening river that access has been made scarce of in exchange of the "gift" of drinking water at the cost of a denial of earthly presence.
